Instructions

In some areas, there are coffee shops and restaurants that have an option called “hold a coffee/meal”. In these places, when buying something you can also pay for a second coffee or sandwich etc. that the owner will keep for someone who can’t afford one.

For this project participants should get in touch with a local business and find one who can support the project.

Once they’ve found a place that can support this action, prepare posters or posts on social media to spread the word. Aim to spread the word to both people who can pay for an extra coffee and people who can’t afford one. They could get in touch with local homelessness charities etc to help spread the word.

If the project is successful, consider contacting more places in the area and encouraging them to also join the project.
